—The London police grew out of the night watchmen established in the metropolis by Henry III. in 1253, an order of things which continued down to the first quarter of the present century. Many persons still living can recall the antiquated individuals who did duty in that force in the early days of the century, and whose chief duty appeared to be to disturb the night's rest by calling out at each hour the time and state of the weather.

graphs say that the pictures of prominent men are very little in demand nowadays. They are seen so often in the illustrated papers that photographs no longer go.

The actresses and fashionable women, of all social grades, are eagerly bought, not by their admirers among men mainly, but by dressmakers of the second class in Paris and the provinces. The latter buy the photographs to study the patterns.

—A house servant in Vienna says he committed his various crimes, including robbery and attempted murder, because of the maddening effect of being required to shave off his mustache. The woman who engaged him made it a condition that his upper lip should be clean shaven and the man agreed under protest. After five years he had been discovered to be a criminal, and in his confession he says that his motive was to revenge himself on his mistress for the wound she gave his manhood.

—Eight cars loaded with human hair arrived in Paris recently, consigned to dealers in that merchandise. The hair came from India and China, whence thousands of pounds are annually sent to England and France. This is the foreign medical journal says, is the cause of the introduction of many diseases in Europe. The hair is cut from persons after death in China, and, although it is disinfected upon arrival in France, it often carries the germs of disease. Asiatic hair, owing in part to its coarseness, can be purchased cheaply.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

—The total production of coal in Belgium in 1892 was 19,588,175 metric tons, the average value being stated at $1.06 per ton. The total number of employees, taking the average for the year, was 118,578, of whom 88,806 were employed below ground, and 29,772 on the surface. It is stated that the number of women employed below underground is decreasing, and it is hoped that the employment of women, except on the surface, will soon cease altogether. Wages have shown a slight decrease, the average amount paid per head last year, including all employes in and about the mines, having been $188.74, against $208.50 in 1892. Even with such low wages trade was not very profitable, for the average profit realized per ton was about 12 cents.

Small Change.

Reggie—I changed my mind. I suppose I have a right to?

Kitty—O, yes, only it must be something like changing a cent.—Life.

EPILEPSY OR FITS.

Can this disease be cured? Most physicians say

No—Yes, Yes; all forms and the worst cases. After 30 years study and experiment I have found the remedy.—Epilepsy is cured by its cause, not sub-
